VICTIM IN BLACK HAND FEUD SHOT TWICE, KNIFE THIRCE.

Police Believe Murdered Italian Had
Misappropriated "Protection"
Funds.

Detectives who spent the night investigating the killing of an unidentified Italian, in East Thirtieth street near Third avenue, are sure to-day he was the victim of a Black Hand feud and that more than one man attacked him. Examination of the body showed that in addition to the two bullet wounds in the man's abdomen there were three stiletto wounds in the back.

In a memorandum book found on the body there was a list of names with amounts of money noted beside each. The police believe this a record of collections of Black Hand "protection" funds, and their theory is that the collector diverted some of the money to his own pocket and was slain in revenge. On the fly leaf of the book was the name "Salvatore Bianco, East Stroudsburg, Pa."
